

PRESS RELEASE - 10th November 2008

Girl Band's Favourite Interior Designer

Susan White, founder of Phoenix Interior Design, has just completed new projects for members of chart-topping girl-band Girls Aloud.

Both Nicola Roberts and Sarah Harding requested the services of one of the UK's leading interior designers. The result was two stunning projects that both featured in leading press in the last few months.

Following a long list of high profile and celebrity clients, Susan White has appeared in the Andrew Martin Design Handbook for the second year in a row.

Renowned for providing the very best in interior architecture and interior design solutions, Susan White's clients are both colourful and varied - from the UK's leading developers right through to high profile personalities in business and entertainment fields.

Susan has provided commentary to the trade for many years with regard to style, colour and trend prediction - within the Showhouse market she is regarded as a leading authority on furnishing trends.

Susan White is available for authoritative comment in the media.
